

GOV. WILSON GIVEN ROUSING RECEPTION

LEADERS OF POLITICAL FACTIONS MEET HERE TO GREET NEW JERSEY MAN.

DEMOCRACY'S SUCCESS

Presidential Probability Says Party Will Succeed Next Year Because of Progressiveness.

The visit here yesterday of Gov. Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, who traveled from that distant State to Texas in response to an invitation to meet and address his friends and supporters from all over the State at Woodrow Wilson Day at the Fair, inspired one of the most extraordinary gatherings of political leaders ever seen in Texas.

Gov. Wilson was given one of the most enthusiastic receptions any man in public life has received in Dallas, but the most conspicuous feature of the occasion was the assembling in harmony of men who have differed widely on many political issues in the past.

As a matter of fact, added Mr. Johnson laughing, "if our guest of honor should retire, we would be fighting in five minutes."

Predicts Democratic Success. For the first time in public utterance Gov. Wilson at the luncheon yesterday expressed his belief that Democratic success was assured in the coming year.

Delegations from Muskogee and other Oklahoma towns met Gov. Wilson on his way to Dallas, and owing to the fact that he was unable to leave Dallas until the morning, he will leave for Muskogee tomorrow.

Reception given the distinguished visitor upon his arrival yesterday morning. Gov. Wilson was met at the station by a large number of citizens, and on the train at the Katy station, Gov. Colquitt of Texas was the first to shake hands with the Governor.

PREDICTS MISSOURI TO HAVE SINGLE TAX

HENRY GEORGE JR. DELIVERS ADDRESS TO CITY CLUB IN ST. LOUIS

IS FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Says Many Cities in Canadian Northwest Experiment with the Elder George's Principles.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 28.—Addressing the City Club this afternoon, Henry George Jr., New York Congressman, said Missouri will be one of the first States to adopt the single tax idea, which made his father famous.

At the Platters Hotel, Mr. George said he had just returned from the Northwest, where he found the single tax idea of his father in practical use at Vancouver, B. C.

"Many other cities of the Canadian Northwest country they are experimenting with single tax and it is only a question of a short time when all of them will adopt the system. The Northwest is strong for the referendum, recall and suffrage for women. I don't see why women should be denied the ballot. They form half the population, and if they are allowed to vote, it will certainly be a good thing for the single tax movement."

BANK DEPOSIT SLIP REGARDED IMPORTANT

DISCOVERY BELIEVED TO PRACTICALLY COMPLETE CHAIN IN LORIMER EVIDENCE.

Special to The News.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 28.—Discovery of a bank deposit slip which makes practically complete the chain of evidence against Senator John Lorimer was the feature of the last week in the investigation of the Chicago case.

The discovery was made by the United States Senate of the election of Senator William Lorimer.

The newly discovered deposit slip relates to the deposit of the $700 jackpot money. At the time of the former Senator's investigation a year ago, the $2500 deposit slip was produced, but in looking up the $700 payment the investigators were told by the Chicago police that the $700 had been paid to the Senator by Mr. Broderick at the latter's saloon.

That on that same day Mr. Holtzslaw deposited the entire amount in the State Bank of Chicago, Chicago correspondent of the Holtzslaw bank at Iowa, that on Aug. 26, 1909, Senator Broderick wrote Mr. Holtzslaw a letter in which he asked him to call on him by the following Saturday, Aug. 28, at 4 o'clock.

TEXAS STATE FAIR WILL CLOSE GATES TONIGHT

Twenty-Sixth Annual Entertainment Was One of Most Successful in History of the Institution

LARGE ATTENDANCE ON SATURDAY

Address by Governor Woodrow Wilson Makes Day Rank With Best of the Present Entertainment—Estimated Attendance 46,000.

For the closing day of the Texas State Fair all exhibits will be open, with special features in all departments. Souvenirs will be given by all exhibitors as remembrances of the 1911 Fair.

Beckwith Havens, the aviator, will begin his flights at 11 a. m., weather permitting, and make at least five flights during the day, if weather is favorable. He will give an exhibition of bomb-throwing and may attempt to break the altitude record. Rick & Harris' Band will entertain the visitors between each flight.

Specialty prepared sacred concerts will be given by Thyvius' Band in the Coliseum from 10:30 a. m. to 12 m., from 2:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m. and from 7:45 p. m. to 9 p. m. The opera company and all specialty acts will be seen at these times.

All shows along Amusement Row will be open and special farewell programs will be given in many of them. Band concerts will be given on all the plazas.

The visit of Woodrow Wilson, Governor of New Jersey and probable Democratic candidate for Presidential honors, was easily the feature of the Texas State Fair yesterday and attending the great Exposition was probably the largest crowd of the week since Sunday, many of whom were attracted by the presence of the noted visitor. Mr. Huvelle of the ticket department of the Fair placed the day's attendance at 46,000.

Gov. Wilson arrived at the Fair Grounds shortly after 3 o'clock and was greeted with many courtesies. From his carriage he proceeded immediately to the Coliseum, where a crowd of fully 7,500 was gathered to hear him in a public address.

The crowd was augmented also by the thousands who each year select the last Saturday of the State Fair for their visit. Incoming trains brought larger delegations from many sections of the State, the low excursion rates proving attractive inducements for those who cared to visit the wonders of the Fair.

Beginning at an early hour the visitors descended upon the ticket takers and the gates were kept revolving with increasing speed until long past the noon hour. As a whole the crowd did not tarry long in the downtown districts. A few, comparatively speaking, had business in the city, and these scattered over both the wholesale and retail sections during the morning, but the larger per cent of the visitors immediately sought cars for the Fair Grounds. Extra service had been installed on the street car lines in anticipation of a rush day, but even with this cars were jammed full of humanity until late in the afternoon.

Every department has enjoyed heavy patronage. While it did not attract a very large additional attendance, the meeting of the Texas Inventors brought some of the most enthusiastic visitors who have been here during the Fair.

Reveries of the Fair briefly at the close of the day yesterday, President E. J. Kiest said:

"The evening is and has been running smoothly during this Fair. The attendance has, under existing circumstances, been fairly good. It is an encouraging thing to have received one single kick about the show that we have offered the people of Texas. We have had millions of suggestions, however, all of which I shall load upon my successor, whoever that may be. I am much pleased with the success of this Fair."

Illness of Parish Priest Puts Stop to Church Exercises by Archbishop Gleason.

Special to The News.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 28.—The dedication of the Catholic Church here by Archbishop Gleason and other church dignitaries has been indefinitely postponed because of the illness of Father Charles Van Tournhout, who has been pastor of that parish for thirteen years. Father Van Tournhout is now at St. Louis Hospital under treatment for a nervous breakdown.

The collapse of the priest after years of persistent work for his parish of 500 families resulted from an attack made on him three weeks ago by three armed men in the parochial residence, after demanding money and threatening the priest with death, the men compelled Father Van Tournhout to drive them to Zeel, a few miles distant, and allow them to escape after he had paid them the demanded ransom.

YOU OUGHT TO COME OUT WEST A WHILE AND BREATHE THE PURE, DRY AIR. TO GET AWAY FROM CIVIL LIFE WITH ALL ITS GRINDING WEAR.

Out where the towns grow fat on sticks and rocks. And where the bells announcing meals can take the place of clocks.

Come out where horses turn hand-springs, and when proceedings stop.

You find the man who started there still calmly roasts on top. And to you of the shabby knees, pale from effects of fright.

Extends a hand and makes request, "Say, son, gimme a light."

"Your horse is wild," in shocking tones you say, with bulging eyes. And he who rides makes no attempt to cover his surprise.

"H'm wild?" he says. "Why, bless your soul, he's just a little gay. He's just a fool, that little horse, he always acts that way."

Come where the burro stags at night in tones that echo far; Where everything seems very near, but everything is far.

You'd better close your desk a while and come out for a rest. Among the ranches, miles apart, that dot the boundless West.

WILSON PRAISES TEXAS FOR COMMISSION FORM

GIVEN PRONOUNCED OVATION IN FORT WORTH.

Declares Hon. for Reunited Democratic Party to Serve Its Country Has Come.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 28.—An enthusiastic reception was accorded Hon. Woodrow Wilson, Governor of New Jersey, when he spoke here tonight. He was acclaimed as the Democratic chief of the Nation and the next President of the United States, and his speech was applauded vigorously. When he entered the hall he was given an ovation, and when he closed his address many pressed forward to shake his hand. Gov. Wilson complimented Texas and Galveston, which established the common form of government for cities, which plan, in time, he said, would become known as the American form, and declared that he had been foremost in registering railroads and corporations and other States, owed her a debt of gratitude.

Gov. Wilson's speech was clear and forcible and interspersed with anecdotes which provoked laughter and illustrated his argument. The hour for the reunited Democratic party to serve the country, he said, had come. By the action of the minority, he said, the people of the country are now saying that the Democrats had at last forgotten how to blunder. He predicted a victory at the next national election.

Greeted by 1,000 People.
An audience of about 1,000 people awaited the arrival of Gov. Woodrow Wilson at the City Hall auditorium. The decorations of the interior consisted of flags, bunting, potted palms, streamers and cut flowers, which almost concealed the walls and ceiling surrounding the rostrum. Above the speaker's stand were several streamers bearing the words, "Woodrow Wilson and United Democracy," "Woodrow Wilson, the Representative American," and above the front entrance of the City Hall was placed a banner containing the words "Woodrow Wilson, 1912."

Judge Sam Hunter addressed the audience before the arrival of the visitor. He said: "At Dallas today after Gov. Wilson had spoken a few words, beginning his speech with the words 'I am glad to be here,' he gave him such an ovation that he was unable to proceed for several minutes. Let Fort Worth do as well as Dallas."

Cox's band supplied music in the auditorium and repeated to the last note when he arrived.

Visitor's Escort.
At 8:40 o'clock when Gov. Wilson entered the hall escorted by William Jackson, Col. R. M. Wynne, State Railroad Commissioner Williams, former State Insurance Commissioner T. R. Love, Rev. William Caldwell and others, he was greeted with an ovation which lasted until the party was seated on the rostrum.

Judge William McLean presided and introduced Hon. W. D. Williams, former Mayor of Fort Worth. Mr. Williams created to introduce the guest of honor, saying he was greatly pleased to be among his old friends and constituents. He said that the evolution of man, generation after generation for ages and declared that today, spite of all that has gone before the end is as far off as it was to our remote ancestors. Through government alone could man hope to advance and if that government be a democracy the advancement of the people would be the business of every man. He said that he had been told that in no sense was this a political gathering, but he hoped it would take a political trend and result in making Woodrow Wilson next President of the United States.

Course of Nation.
A second ovation was given Gov. Wilson who smiled blandly at the cheering and the ovation. He said he was exceeding glad to be in Fort Worth. There is a universal expectation and excitement of the country at present, he declared, which he had not witnessed before, and he believed that the time had come when the American people had decided to break away from the constructive genius of their ancestors and take their affairs into their own hands. The present contained problems for which he said the past had given no solution. The phrases of the Declaration of Independence, so often quoted, he said, meant nothing to the present age unless they could be translated into action.

The excitement and exhilaration of the people now, he said, was due to the fact that our fellow citizens are tired of rhetoric and want action. Instead of having a people operating through representative officials, we have had middle men who reap the profit, he said. Men who made the states were middle men. After the states were made it was found necessary to oil the machinery that the ticket might win. Certain business interests found it to their advantage to furnish the oil, and these were the combinations which must be broken up in every State.

"The people had finally decided to live no longer in a fool's paradise," he said.

In New Jersey.
He described conditions in New Jersey, where the interests backed both tickets with money until it made no difference to the people whether they were Democrats or Republicans.

"We must do anything that is necessary to recover the control of our own Government. I do not know the conditions here in Texas, but I do know the conditions in New Jersey. We mean to have our way there now. Book or cross the New Jersey for that is the way it has generally been controlled in the past."

Let certain group of citizens, he said, had long believed that they were called upon to shape the destinies of the country. They know nothing of the hopes and aspirations and sufferings of the masses; in fact, his objection to them was that they didn't know enough to govern the country.

"The men who are going to serve this country in the future he said have not yet been declared. The strength of a tree came from its roots, not from the flower."

To Play Open Game.
"Small groups of citizens in big business sought to make the election a country and asked only to be let alone. They had gained only suspicion. These men should have all their hands on the table and disclosed their cards. There had been the first to inaugurate railway regulation. Now all the States had taken it up. New Jersey was just beginning to regulate its public service corporation. At first those in control of the corporations did not know that it was for their benefit. Now they had begun to realize it."

Time Has Come.
"The time has come for the people to take the ax and clear the jungle away. To begin to do this they must get into the open with nothing to hide behind. At present the Democratic party has a golden opportunity not to serve itself, but to serve the country. The majority party in Congress has shown its courage and sincerity by voting for the majority party in the House, which minority had always advocated. That is why the country is now saving the Democrats have forgotten how to blunder. The Democratic party is now the majority party in the House. That is the opportunity at present of drawing to itself all men who desire to serve the United States and correct the evils of government. However, the confidence of the people had to be obtained by candor and retained by honest persuasion. He said that he had been to America, describing this country as the land of the free, holding out a beacon to the entire world.

State Legislatures.
He spoke of the haphazard manner in which the State Legislatures passed many of the bills, he said, were written in lawyers' offices and introduced by request.

"What we need in this country is to re-establish government by opinion." In response to a question from the gallery, he said Texas had taught him to believe in the short ballot.

"Texas had also taught the cities the Galveston plan of government, which had closed with a brief informal reception. The commission form of government would in time come to be known as the American form of government. Instead of the old Tweed ring, the Galveston plan had converted it into the 'Tweed ring' of the future."

"I had almost as soon have a bad government that is vital than a good government that is in a dry rot. The people in the end will come out all right. The first time you hear an office-holder say 'Leave it to me,' turn him out."

Reception at Hotel.
Gov. Woodrow Wilson reached this city at 7:30 o'clock from Dallas escorted by a reception committee which was large enough comfortably to fill the special interurban car in which he traveled.

Gov. Wilson was taken to the Westbrook Hotel, where after a brief informal reception, he sat down to dinner with State Railroad Commissioner W. D. Williams and a few others. The dinner lasted but half an hour at the end of which the distinguished visitor was carried in an automobile to the City Hall and began speaking at 8:15 o'clock.

The New Jersey Governor did not spend the night in Fort Worth, but returned to Dallas at 11:30 o'clock by a special interurban, in which city he was due to remain until morning.

GRANTED LEAVE OF ABSENCE.

Chief Constructor Cappe of Navy Will Not Be Able to Appear Before Investigating Committee.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Chief Constructor Washington L. Cappe, who opposed the Meyer plan of reorganization in the navy and who was later succeeded as chief of the Bureau of Construction and Detached to the Philippines, has by orders issued today been granted leave of absence for four months, beginning Dec. 5 next, with permission to go abroad. It is understood that the trial will last all of next week.

Mary Boswell, an old negro woman, turned the scene will begin the introduction of testimony in support of their contention that the killing was an act in defense of a woman's life.

Only two days of the first week of the trial were devoted to the taking of evidence. The first four days being consumed in securing a jury. It is expected that the trial will last all of next week.

MISS NIDA H. HOPKINS.
Will be in Dallas Nov. 1 to begin her work. Miss Hopkins wishes to say that all teachers desiring to get in touch with her line of work must apply at once, as she has arranged to do some work in Chicago this season, and also in Florida. Her time in Dallas is, therefore, limited. She will be glad to see anyone and everyone who is interested in the putting of the teaching of ethics in our schools and colleges and in the home. Miss Hopkins will be at the Oriental Hotel Nov. 1.

OAK CLIFF

A SERIES of facts in type form concerning the most beautiful residential section adjacent to Dallas. This campaign is being conducted by subscription of Oak Cliff residents for the good of the community, and not in the interest of any individual, firm or corporation.

"Where The South Breeze Strikes First"

"Think of it! More than half the building permits for residences issued by the city of Dallas since January 1st, 1911, have been for homes in Oak Cliff.

Isn't this a fairly good criterion on the estimation of the general public regarding this delightful residential section, 150 feet above the city level of Dallas proper?

Oak Cliff, "The Other Half of Dallas," is a city of homes, removed from all city annoyances.

Here your wife and children may walk the streets alone in perfect safety.

The schools of Oak Cliff are as good as any in Texas. The water system is unexcelled, by reason of the fact that Oak Cliff water comes from thousands of feet beneath the earth, as pure as crystal and possessing health-giving properties.

Street cars leave every ten minutes for Dallas, and the short trip is most exhilarating.

'Twould be difficult to imagine a more congenial or homelike spot than Oak Cliff, and those about to build are kindly asked to consider its many advantages.

that we shall give them the opportunity to prove character. The witness was excused, and counsel for the prosecution decided to hold such evidence regarding the prisoner until after the case for the defense has been concluded.

At the afternoon session several witnesses gave testimony in French, the court acting as interpreter. These were Miss Laura Amye, a neighbor of the McRees; August Amye, a carpenter, and Joseph Stealy. The former outlined Mrs. McRee's actions just following the shooting. She said, after the three shots were fired, all in rapid succession, Mrs. McRee came over to her house and asked for a drink of whisky, saying she felt faint. Miss Amye's most important testimony related to an engagement made the day previous to the killing by Mrs. McRee to go down town the following morning with the witness and do some shopping. "Mrs. McRee came over to my house that day" (the day of the killing), witness stated, "about 7 o'clock. She said she was busy and could not go to town, and that I could go with her boy."

Other witnesses testified to having seen Miss Garland at the McRee home at different times.
