 Woolnoth v. Meadows. Judgment for the plaintiff upon the demurrers to the 2d, 3d, and 5th pleas.

COLLINS v. Ld. Viscount MATHEW.

Nov. 15th

A plea of nul tiel record, pleaded to an action * [474] of debt on an Irish judgment recovered, must conclude to the country; for though since the Union, such judgment be a record, yet it is only proveable by an examined copy on oath, the veracity of which is only triable by a jury.

THE plaintiff declared in debt upon a judgment recovered in the court of Exchequer in Ireland for 360*l.* 16*s.*, and also 50*s.* and 2*d.* Irish currency, for damages and costs, “as by the record and proceedings thereof remaining in the said court of our Lord the King of his *Exchequer at Dublin in Ireland aforesaid, more fully appears, &c. which said judgment still remains in the same court of Dublin in Ireland aforesaid in full force and not satisfied,” &c. : and concluding with an averment that the said 360*l.* 16*s.* and 50*s.* 2*d.* so recovered were of the value of 335*l.* 7*s.* 2*d.* of lawful money of Great Britain. To this there was a plea of nul tiel record, with a verification; and a demurrer on the part of the plaintiff to such plea; assigning for special causes, that the plea of nul tiel record is not pleadable to an action of debt on a foreign judgment; or, if pleadable at all, it ought to have concluded to the country, and not with a verification.

Wood, in support of the demurrer, contended at first, that this fell within the same distinction as governed the case of actions on foreign judgments, to which it was settled that nul tiel record could not be pleaded. For since the appellate jurisdiction of this Court from the courts of Ireland was taken away (a), there is no method of bringing the original Irish record into this court, and consequently no way of trying its existence but by an examined copy, and that verified on oath, of which a jury only can judge, and not the court by whom the question of the identity of our own records is properly determinable. And this gives rise to the next objection, that if it be pleadable at all as a record, the plea ought to have concluded to the country, and not with a verification.

* [475] The Court now intimated a clear opinion, that since the Union between Great Britain and Ireland the judgments of the Irish courts are properly pleadable as records. And Lord Ellenborough, C. J. said, that such records were now *brought before the House of Lords of the United Kingdom on appeals and writs of error, though no longer returnable into this court by certiorari. But his Lordship, addressing himself to the defendant's counsel, asked what answer could be given to the last cause of demurrer assigned? For though the Irish judgment be a record, yet being only proveable by an examined copy on oath, the verity of the evidence could only be tried by a jury, and not by the Court; and therefore the conclusion should have been to the country.

Lawes in support of the plea, (as to this, which was the principal point made in argument,) said, that the judgments of the Irish courts being admitted to be records since the Union, must be taken to be and pleadable as such, with all legal consequences, as the records of other courts within this part of the kingdom: and such pleas have always been pleaded with a verification. The cases of Walker v. Witter(a), and Galbraith v. Neville there cited(b), which were actions of debt on foreign judgments, where the plea of nul tiel record was said to be a nullity, do not apply.

(a) Vide 23 Geo. 3. c. 28. explaining and enforcing the stat. 23 Geo. 3. c. 53

The Court all agreeing that the objection to the conclusion of the plea was well founded, for the reason before stated, gave Judgment for the plaintiff.

1804.

Collins
 v.
 Ld. Mathew

(a) Dougl. 1.

(b) Ib. 5. 6. It is there stated, that the rule for a new trial in Galbraith v. Neville was made absolute. But according to my note of the case, it stood over from Easter 29 to Mich. 31 Geo. 3. for the Court to advise upon it, when Lord Kenyon, C. J. said, that the Court had considered the matter, and were all of opinion, that no new trial ought to be granted. He added, that, without entering into the question how far a foreign judgment was impeachable, it was at all events clear that it was prima facie evidence of the debt; and they were of opinion that no evidence had been adduced to impeach this; and therefore discharged the rule. [Vide Taylor v. Bryden, 8 Johns. 173. 178. and the authorities cited in the editor's note to Buchanan v. Rucker, 9 East 194.]

*SMITH v. M'CLURE.

* [476]

Nov. 16th.

THE plaintiff declared upon a bill of exchange, dated 1st December 1802, drawn by himself upon the defendant at two months for 134*l.* payable to his own order, and that he delivered the said bill to the defendant, which he upon sight thereof accepted according to the custom of merchants; by reason of which said premises, and according to the said custom and law of merchants, the defendant became liable to pay to the plaintiff the sum specified in the said bill, &c. and being so liable the defendant promised to pay, &c. To this there was a demurrer assigning for special causes, 1st, that although it is alleged that the plaintiff delivered the said bill of exchange to the defendant before his acceptance thereof, yet it is not alleged, nor does it appear, that he ever re-delivered the same to the plaintiff. 2. That it is not alleged, nor does it appear, that the plaintiff did not make any order for the payment of the said bill to any other person, or that he ever made any order for the payment of it to himself.

A bill of exchange payable to the order of A. is payable to A., without alleging any order made, and it is sufficient to declare that A. delivered the bill to the defendant, which he accepted, and by reason of the premises and according to the custom of merchants became liable to pay the contents to

W. Walton in support of the demurrer, as to the first objection said, that it did not appear by the declaration but that the defendant had kept the bill when it was delivered to him; and as it was drawn by the plaintiff himself, it never was of any value while in his hands, nor could become so till re-delivery by the acceptor, by which he finally consented to charge himself with the payment of it. And secondly, that being drawn payable; without alleging a re-delivery of the bill by the defendant: for if a re-delivery, or something tantamount to shew the assent of the drawee to charge himself, be necessary to an acceptance, the demurrer, by admitting the acceptance, impliedly admits the re-delivery, &c.
